ROYAL BAKING POWDER

The finest, most tasteful and wholesome biscuit, cake and pastry are made with Royal Baking Powder, and not otherwise. Royal is the only Baking Powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar

BE A FRIEND TO MAN.

The following lines are from Sam Walter Foss:

"Let me live in a house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by—
Men who are good and men who are bad,
As good as and as bad as I.

"I would not sit in the scorners' seat,
Nor hurl the cynic's band,
Let me live in a house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man."

Common House Fly Enemy of Mankind.

The common house fly hardly can be denounced enough. Already in our midst the house fly, the dirty fly, the typhoid and cholera infantum fly, will soon swarm in thousands and millions unless precautions are taken. The house fly has been exposed. Its habits are filthy. It breeds in stables and garbage pails and carries the filth it revels in and tracks it across the sugar, the butter and the beefsteak. It paddles its horrid feet, gummed with the vilest rotting matter, in the baby's milk.

The doctors have declared war on the house fly. It can be driven out of every city. In an age of knowledge, screen and cheap disinfectants there is no excuse for flies in any household. Clean up your premises.

Tobacco Pool Formed in Virginia to Hold For 12 Cents.

The Mutual Protective Association of Bright Tobacco Growers of Virginia and North Carolina, at Danville, Va., decided to pool the 1909 crop for an average of twelve cents. The meeting was attended by several hundred farmers. They favor a high tariff on Turkish tobacco, which enters into competition with the product in this section. Congressman Saunders declared that it would be a great injustice to the tobacco growers if Turkish tobacco were allowed to come in without a tax, and especially so in view of the fact that Turkey prohibited American grown tobacco.

Harsh physics react, weaken the bowels, cause chronic constipation. Doan's Regulents operate easily, tone the stomach, cure constipation. 25c. Ask your druggist for them. 43-4t.

Opposes Marriages of Jews With Christians.

Dr. Leon Harrison, of Temple Israel, St. Louis, stoutly opposed the intermarriage of Jews and Christians in a sermon at the Free synagogue. Fusion, he said, would only result in confusion, while "intermarriage would simply mean, not that the vast majority would be drawn to Israel, but that we of Israel would overwhelmingly be merged and lost in Christendom."

Dirt Flying On Panama Canal.

The total excavation for April on the Panama Canal was 3,454,649 cubic yards.

NEW SULTAN PLOWS THE PALACE LAWN.

Christians See Rites That Their Eyes Never Beheld Before.

At Constantinople on May 10, Mehmed V ended his "Coronation day" by plowing a furrow in the lawn at Dolma Bagtsche palace, symbolically at least, by holding the plow handles for a fraction of a minute while two horses dragged it a few yards. In carrying out the ancient test, Mehmed V showed himself to be sound of body and fit to bear the physical burdens of the empire.

It had been a day both of fulfillment of ancient customs and of breaking them. Christians for the first time were admitted to the small mosque attached to Ayoub Mosque and allowed to see the ceremony of girding the sword of Osman upon the Sultan.

TWO ARE THERE.

Among thirty persons present were Boskum Pasha, an American, and Woods Pasha, an Englishman, both of whom are in the Turkish service.

Barley Committee Meets.

The Executive Committee of the Barley Tobacco Society met at Winchester last Wednesday. The principal subject discussed was of the purchase made by F. P. Collins & Son, of Louisville. The Independents were to have met with the Board and arrange to take over the tobacco but for some reason not one appeared. It is said that other Independents refuse to take over their allotment and the society will probably file suits against them.

Will Urge Pardon of Indian Refinery.

Business men from Georgetown Commercial Club went to Frankfort Thursday morning to meet Gov. Willson and urge that he grant a pardon to the Indian Refining Company, of Georgetown, which recently was fined $10,000 in the Franklin Circuit Court for pollution of the waters of Elkhorn creek. Application was made on the ground that the amount of the fine is excessive and that the company had done everything in its power to prevent the water from being polluted. The citizens of Georgetown are afraid that they might lose the refining plant which means so much to Georgetown.

No Roosters Allowed.

Roosters may be no longer kept in the District of Columbia. This is the principal burden of the new "chicken" regulations by the Health Department. The rules specify under what conditions chickens may be kept.

Sixth—No roosters may be kept on the premises.
A fine of from $2 to $10 a day is provided for all violations.
(Does this apply to Republican roosters?)

The Ethics of Politics.

Two years ago Bishop Galloway delivered an address before the Mississippi Press Association on "The Ethics of Politics," in which he eloquently portrays some of the moral duties and social relations of men. He said:

"Napoleon on one occasion defiantly said, 'With the armies of France at the back I shall always be in the right.' He only acknowledged the supreme, final authority of national force, with never a thought of public virtue or national crime. That atheistic doctrine made Europe run red with blood, and wrote some of the most tragic chapters in the history of political governments. In our commonwealth we repudiate and condemn it.

"Our politics must have a substantial, an ethical and religious basis. Love of country is intensified and purified [with the love of the Lord we worship and the religion we embrace. The ethics of the Man of Galilee ought to be our standard of political as well as personal character.

"We ought to abolish, and forever banish, the distinction between the social and the secular. The functions of citizenship are as sacred as the songs of Zion. The ballot is as holy as the Book of Common Prayer. The same law of duty controls in the service of country as in the conventicles of the sanctuary—in the halls of State and at the church house of God. What a magnificent illustration of Christian conscience in the field of politics the world had in the late William E. Gladstone, the unrivaled statesman of the nineteenth century. He espoused no cause that did not absolutely command the homage of his soul, and the unpreserved approval of his sanctified judgment.

"From the depths of my soul, and in behalf of American citizenship, do I repudiate the doctrine of a distinguished politician who said, 'The Decalogue and the Golden Rule have no place in a political campaign.' Over against that blasphemous declaration, which is nothing less than a wanton affront to our national honor, I rejoice to place the eloquent words of the immortal Washington in his farewell address: 'Public prosperity has no foundation but morality and religion; and religion is the only security of morality.'

"In political, as in personal conduct, there is a right and wrong, and by that divine and universal standard men and measures must stand or fall. It is an eternal decree, from which there is neither exemption nor exception. And no brilliancy of genius or splendor of achievement or conspicuousness of position can save a man lacking in moral integrity from the merited and irreparable condemnation of history. There may be a temporary exaltation of wrong and deceit, borne upward by a wave of blind popular passion, but the fall is as certain and merciless as the grinding mills of the gods. On the other hand, right-doing, buttressed by principle, approved of God, and guarded by the ceaseless vigilance of truth and justice, will never be jostled from its throne of light, but even command the increasing admiration of the growing years. The Genius of History can never be deceived. There was never a man in our American public life of more god-like genius or varied accomplishments or irresistible attractiveness or superb qualities of leadership than Aaron Burr; but for lack of moral fiber he went down to the uttermost humiliation and to eternal execration. Germany has never produced a more brilliant and versatile genius than Goethe—poet, author and political philosopher. But it is said of him that he always kept two friends busy: 'One weaving laurels for his brow, the other cleaning mud off his clothes.'

"But just here I wish to state with all possible clearness and emphasis, a distinction that must be made, in a nation that jealously and properly guards the separation of church and State. Sectarianism should never enter politics, but religion everywhere and always. The churches should have no political creed, but individual Christians should not be without one, clearly defined and conscientiously embraced. Every citizen a politician and every politician a religious, God-fearing man would make this an ideal republic of supernatural strength and beauty. To approximate it should be our prayer and effort.

"There is an ethical obligation upon every citizen to take an active part in public affairs. Edmund Burke, whose philosophic and political wisdom commands increasing respect, on one occasion uttered these words, which need special emphasis in America today: 'He transgresses against the law of duty who sleeps upon his watch as well as he who goes over to the enemy.' In affairs of state indifference and neglect are national crimes. One as much betrays his country by disregarding her needs as in the desertion of her colors. Activity in public affairs is the present and imperial demand upon every Christian patriot. It is idle, even to criminality, to deprecate the course of political events and viciously assault the acts and motives of those in responsible positions, when we are doing nothing to elevate wisely guide the affairs of government. The criticisms of a slothful citizen are worse than the emptiest cant. At an important election some years ago in New York—an election involving not only the interests of a great city, but of the entire nation—on Fifth avenue, from Fortieth to Sixty-eighth, a distance of one mile and a half, just twenty-eight votes were cast. And yet those are the neglectful citizens, who are loudest in their denunciation of corrupt municipal and national politics."

HAZELRIGG & SON

TO AILING WOMEN.

A Little Sound Advice Will Help Many a Sufferer in Mt. Sterling.

No woman can be healthy and well if the kidneys are sick. Poisons that pass off in the secretions when the kidneys are well, are retained in the body when the kidneys are sick. Kidneys and bladder becomes inflamed and swollen and worse trouble follows. This is often the true cause of bearing down pains, lameness, backache, side-ache, etc. Uric poisoning also causes headaches, dizzy spells, languor, nervousness and rheumatic pain.

When suffering so, try Doan's Kidney Pills, a remedy that cures sick kidneys. You will get better as the kidneys get better, and health will return when the kidneys are well. Let a Mt. Sterling woman tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Hazzard Trimble, 4 Jamison St., Mt. Sterling, Ky., says: "I am pleased to say that Doan's Kidney Pills helped me greatly. I was in poor health for some time and was unable to stand or do any housework. I had pains in my left side accompanied by a bearing-down ache through my kidneys. The passages of the kidney secretions were irregular and at times so scanty that there was an almost complete retention. I began to notice signs of dropsy in my limbs and hands and my condition was becoming worse when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at F. C. Duerksen's drug store. I was greatly benefited and felt like a different woman. These results have proven to me the effectiveness of Doan's Kidney Pills, and I am pleased to give them my highest endorsement."

A Sure Cure.

Wm. Manlove, Tipton, Ind., says: "I had cholera in my head and did not lose a hog after giving them Bourbon Hog Cholera Remedy. In my judgment this medicine is a sure cure for hog cholera." Sold by W. S. Lloyd.

BURDEN OF WAR.

Millions of Men and Billions of Money Involved.

In modern times wars are comparatively infrequent. The actual loss of life, therefore, and the sufferings from wounds and injuries are small in our own time in comparison with what they were centuries ago. On the other hand, the preparations for war in modern times bear with tremendous weight in times of peace upon all classes of the community. And the financial load is enough to make the richest nations reel and stagger. As Senator Hale has stated, two-thirds of all the revenues of the United States are used to defray the expenses entailed by past wars or necessary in the preparation of future wars. Taking Europe, as a whole, something like 6,000,000 of people are now in arms, all withdrawn from industrial pursuits in order that they may be trained for war. And their maintenance is, of course, all the time a burden on the productive classes of the community. It is estimated that Europe is regularly expending on her standing armies from $6,000,000,000 to $7,000,000,000,000.

In Dry Column.

Amid confusion and cheers, the new bipartisan City Council, composed of twenty Republicans and twenty Democrats, by a vote of 22 to 17, placed Charleston, the Capital of West Virginia and the second largest city in the State, in the dry column for the revenue year beginning July 1. It was the first meeting under the new bipartisan charter.

Ends After Two Days' Session.

The fifteenth annual session of the Kentucky Great Head Council of the Improved Order of Red Men closed at Lexington on Wednesday. In attendance and business the meeting was the largest and most important of the order in the State.

The most important matter of business was cutting the per capita tax from one dollar to eighty cents. The question was discussed at length and was then referred to the finance committee who drafted a resolution providing for the reduction. The resolution was read and unanimously approved. The amendment will be submitted at the next meeting which will be held in Middlesboro in 1910.

Joseph H. Kemper, of this city, was elected Great Prophet.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE REPUDIATED.

The Courier-Journal on last Wednesday said:

"It seems that Senator H. S. McNutt is a candidate for re-election, that thus far he has no competitor, and that, if uncontested, he will be nominated. In view of that impendency and whilst there is yet time to prevent its realization, the Courier-Journal is constrained to announce that it will not only not support Senator McNutt, but will oppose any ticket on which his name appears."

"His reasons are two-fold.

"First, when Senator McNutt voted for a Republican for United States Senator he separated himself from Democratic fellowship and became an outlaw to the Democratic party of Kentucky.

"Second, he represents distinctly and aggressively, the Saloon interests of the City of Louisville, and at a time when out in the State the charge is made that the Democrats of Louisville have abdicated in favor of that interest, his appearance as a Democratic Senator at Frankfort would be confirmation of that accusation.

"The Courier-Journal refuses to countenance any such act of suicide. It refuses to be party to any such combine."

Mr. Watterson bitterly opposes prohibition, and was antagonistic to Mr. Beckham, yet he utters the above words against a Democratic Senator who voted against Mr. Beckham and who is a saloon keeper.

The character of the man (McNutt) who stands for is evidently objectionable, and Mr. Watterson wishes to prevent the renomination of McNutt, and sees fit to so announce now and not wait till after a nomination is made.

I. D. YOCUM.

This gentleman, over 50 years of age, has spent his entire life in this county, living on the farm. He has never held an elective office, but has served probably five times on the Board of Supervisors, thus gaining a fuller knowledge of the values and assessments of property and lands than falls to the lot of many men. Prominent in church activities in his neighborhood, sober and industrious, he asks his countrymen to commit to him the office of Assessor, promising to do faithful service. We present him for favorable consideration.

A TERM IN PRISON.

In the United States Senate, Thursday, Senator Bailey, of Texas, referring directly to the United States Steel Corporation, said among other things:

"Just put one of these malefactors of great wealth in the penitentiary and you will see the anti-trust laws enforced without further violations. Send one of these men who may be found violating either the inter-state commerce law or the anti-trust law to the penitentiary and you will stop these violations by others. You cannot do it with fines, because when the court fines a trust, the trust fines the people, and as long as the punishment is measured by dollars and cents they will continue to violate the law. Men take the chance of pecuniary loss in the hope of realizing a greater pecuniary gain. The millionaire values one thing more than his fortune, and that is his liberty."

Under headings: "World's Greatest Invention" you will see a new achievement in wireless telegraphy; under "Grant Gives Views on Prohibition" you may be induced to deny yourself for sake of others; under "Burdens of War" see great draft upon industrial forces of the world; under "Senator Paynter Urges Removal of 6 cent tax from Leaf Tobacco," is encouragement for farmers; under "State Wide Liquor Law" see contemplated move by Democrats.

Good character is a necessary and important qualification in public officials. Select men of this kind who are well qualified for the particular work designed and the county's work will be well and honorably done. We do not threaten; we advise and entreat.

The reputation and character of a county depends upon the reputation and character of the officers of the county. Cast your vote for men to whom you can refer with pleasure.

We do not think that just any old kind of a man is fit to fill an office.

His First Visit to Mt. Sterling.

J. G. Trimble will be 86 years old on June 13. He was born at Hazel Green and lived there until his removal to our city in 1876. He says that his first visit to Mt. Sterling (then often spoken of as Little Mountain) was in 1833 or 76 years ago this fall. He came horseback, riding on a sack containing 100 pounds of ginseeng, which was sold at 25c per pound to George Howard, the merchant who then occupied the old brick store which was 6 years ago torn down by Walsh Bros. to make way for their elegant modern building. In his boyhood he had heard an old uncle say that a large tree previously grew on the top of the Indian mound (now occupied by the colored school building) from which our town took the name, Little Mountain, but that that tree had disappeared when he (Mr. Trimble) came with the ginseeng. He says, moreover, that in 1837 or 38 when he drove an ox team to "Little Mountain" that Wm. Mitchell and Wm. Hoffman (both now dead) were clerking for Mr. Howard. One night, as he "camped out" with his ox team on the Dry Ridge, beyond the present Frenchburg, wolves surrounded his camp and kept up a howling. He has many interesting facts of the "long ago" as fresh in his thought as to us are the occurrences of last year.

Electric Line Being Located.

A party of engineers have begun locating a route for an interurban line between Cynthia and Paris. The work of surveying and estimating the cost of construction will be pushed rapidly, the intention of the promoters being to have the road completed by winter, and later to extend the line to Cincinnati, thus connecting Cincinnati and Lexington by trolley connecting with the Lexington interurban at Paris. The line is being financed, presumably by an Eastern traction magnate, whose name is withheld. The route proposed is fourteen miles.

STATE-WIDE LIQUOR LAW

TO BE SLOGAN OF DEMOCRATS.

Former Governor Beckham in Frankfort Paper to Soon Start the Fight.

State-wide prohibition will be the lever used by Kentucky Democracy in an effort to regain control of the State offices in 1911, according to the statement made at Frankfort by a prominent Democratic leader. This will be one of the most prominent planks in the Democratic platform of that year, if, forsooth, it is decided to have any platform at all, and the nominees, from Governor down, will be compelled to pledge themselves to abolish the sale of all intoxicants within the State, according to present plans.

It was stated on the same authority that the recent shift of control of the Kentucky State Journal to former Governor Beckham marked the beginning of the crusade for support on a platform calling for State-wide prohibition, and that soon the editorial columns of that publication will be proclaiming the cause of prohibition in heavy black type and double-column headlines.

WEDDED TO CAUSE.

Gov. Beckham for some years has been a temperance apostle, and since his defeat for the Senate it is said that he has become more firmly wedded to the cause than before. He will be a candidate to succeed Senator Paynter, and expects to go to Washington on a prohibition wave.

Closely allied to his temperance ideals now are said to be Percy Haly, Henry V. McChesney, J. Morgan Chinn and other former State office-holders, and they have adopted the motto: "You can't keep a good man down when they are calling for prohibition from out in the woods."

AIDED BY COMBS.

These leaders, aided and abetted by Senator Thomas A. Combs, who has absolute control of the Democratic State Central Committee at the present time, and who has longed to hold down the Governor's chair for a dozen years, will, it is said, attempt to name the next Democratic State ticket, construct the platform, and lead the party to victory.

The plans, specifications and blue prints drafted by the new coalition are pretty, at least, and calculated by the designers to work out satisfactorily if no untoward event arises.

Just now the Beckham contingent is busy tinkering with the platform which will be submitted to the Democratic voters in 1911. All have agreed, it is said, on the State wide plank, for they believe it will be a winning one, and desire, if possible, to beat the Republicans to it.—Louisville Herald, May 10.—Frankfort Message.

A Novel Introduction.

The Dr. Howard Company have entered into an arrangement with W. S. Lloyd's drug store, by which a special introductory offer will be made of 25 cents on the 50-cent size of their celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia.

So remarkably successful has Dr. Howard's specific been in curing constipation, dyspepsia and all forms of liver trouble, that W. S. Lloyd will return the price paid in every case where it does not give relief.

W. S. Lloyd has been able to secure only a limited supply, so everyone who wishes to be cured of dyspepsia or constipation should call upon him at once or send him 25 cents by mail, and get 50 doses of the best medicine ever made, on this special half price introductory offer, with his personal guarantee to refund the money if the specific does not cure.

Clark County Farmer Shot.

R. H. Curtis shot and wounded Will R. Lockane. The shooting occurred on the Rockeville pike, five miles from Winchester, on Wednesday, May 12. The two men are neighbors and the shooting grew out of a law suit, in which Curtis testified against Lockane. Curtis shot Lockane twice, one shot taking effect in the hip and the other in the abdomen.

Lockane was taken to Lexington in an auto for surgical operation. He died early Thursday afternoon. The two men were alone when shooting occurred. Curtis can be tried in Fayette county for the murder, although the shooting was in Clark. The shooting of Cockrell in Jackson and his death in Lexington during the series of murders in Breathitt revived the law of trial where death occurs.

Naturalization Requisite.

A residence of at least five years is required to qualify an alien for naturalization. No matter how long a man may have been in the United States, two years must elapse between the date of his declaration of intention and his admission to full citizenship.

WORLD'S GREATEST INVENTION

Achieved by a Boy, Who Sets Off Explosive Miles Away By Wireless.

A lanky, sweated school boy has achieved what Tesla, Marconi and other wizards of the wireless have been months vainly laboring for—the invention which scientists long ago agreed would be the greatest blessing to mankind.

He is Charley Williams, eighteen-year-old Evansville, Ind., lad. By pressing the key of a wire, less instrument rigged up in his mother's woodshed the other night he caused an explosion to occur three miles away. It shook every building in the city.

That's what this boy has accomplished. His is an engine of war that will kill war. The United States Government is negotiating for it. If Uncle Sam gets it, he will be supreme among the Powers of the earth.

Charley Williams hasn't stopped at inventing the apparatus which sets off the explosive. He has discovered the explosive itself. He calls it "Williamsite," and declares it to be forty times as powerful as dynamite.

Three ounces of it was enough to scare this city out of a year's growth. A pound, experts say, would have razed every building within a mile of the tree top in which he set up the three ounce bottle for his test.

And the boy has this terrible invention of his perfected. He can direct his blast wherever he wants its force to go. "If a man had been standing under that tree not a hair on his head would have been displaced," young Williams said. "All I had the charge fixed so that its force was upward."

They examined the tree for proof. Its top had been sliced off as with a knife, but beneath not a leaf was disturbed. Below not a living creature was harmed, but the ground for a radius of half a mile was strewn with dead sparrows.

(This appeared in a Louisville daily from Evansville, Ind., May 6. It may be true. It appears unreasonable; but such amazing discoveries have been made that we are slow to reject reported achievements in Scientific discoveries.—Editor.)

"Suffered day and night the torment of itching piles. Nothing helped me until I used Doan's Ointment. It cured me permanently."—Hon. John R. Garrett, Mayor, Girard, Ala.

COURTESY IN THE STREET CAR.

Something of a Reversal of the General Rule.

"Do you suppose that's an effect of the recent agitation of women's rights?" asked the man, indicating with his hand a scene that was taking place in an "L" car in the homeward rush. His companion looked and saw a slender, handsomely dressed woman offer her seat to a young man who, in the crush, was standing in front of her and was carrying an armful of large, heavy books.

The young man looked rather embarrassed and bravely declined with a pleasant little smile, which was all he could accomplish in lieu of raising his hat with his heavily encumbered hands.

"Well, then," said the lady composedly, resuming her seat, "let me hold the books in my lap." That would certainly be kind, if you don't mind," consented the youth, relinquishing his seat; and when the lady reached her station, leaving her seat to him, he thanked her for her thoughtfulness with fully as much gratitude as a woman would have expressed for a similar courtesy from a man—perhaps with more appreciation, the experience being more rare.

AT HARVARD FIFTY YEARS AGO.

N. S. Shaler Tells Us of the Life of a Senior.

He was a senior in Harvard college and had a well-deserved name for scholarship in the classics, as well as for a miscellaneous assortment of talents and knowledge. He was reputed to be the best player of the game of checkers in the country; knew the political history of the United States as well as his own; and, in his youth, having at his tongue's end the story of all the prize-fights of recent times; whilst he was the merriest little man I ever seen. I will recall my first morning with him, when, after going over the best of what I could and could not do, he asked me if I could read a Greek text. At that time I had not learned of his interest in it, and I thought that I would be lowered in his eyes by the confession. To my surprise, indeed to my horror, for I had a swordman's contempt for the business, he insisted on my having a boat with him at once.—N. S. Shaler's Autobiography, in the Atlantic.

Two Marks of Beauty.

Beautiful eyes and brows are, in one sense, a special gift of nature. Many a plain woman is redeemed by fine eyes; many a pretty face spoiled by red-rimmed, dull, lustreless eyes. But at the same time a great deal may be done to make even unpromising eyes clear and attractive, to render eyes which are only passably pretty really beautiful.

Attention to the general health will go far to make the eyes clear and bright. It is not surprising, even when they are called upon to do a great deal of work.

Have you never noticed the dull eyes of a person afflicted with dyspepsia, the yellow tinge of overfeeding and neglected liver; the lustreless eyes of the woman who sleeps in an overheated room, who takes no exercise and spends all her spare time reading novels over the fire?

When It's a Nudé.

"The Bather" was the title of the young painter's picture, the first that he had ever shown. It hung, unnoticed, on the line.

"But," said his friend, "you have done nothing to draw a crowd!" "I've done my best work," said the young painter.

"Pudge" was the retort. "Work draws, but there are better magnets. At the Paris exhibitions every artist, until he makes a name, uses some device to keep a crowd about his daubs."

"A painting like 'The Bather' always, in Paris, has the model, very beautifully dressed, strolling idly back and forth near it. The resemblance between her and it is at once perceived. And the result is the greatest curiosity—an immense crowd—a tremendous hit."

To Save Horses from Fire.

When a horse is released from his stall during a fire, says a technical paper, he will not leave the stable, for the stall is the only place in which he believes himself to be safe. A new patented device, which consists of a pipe running through the stall to the outside of the stable, is designed to cure this. In case of fire a turn of a handle brings a hose nozzle into position and a stream of water pours over the head and shoulders of the horse, which drives him into the gangway, from which it becomes a comparatively easy matter to lead him into the street.

At One Shot.

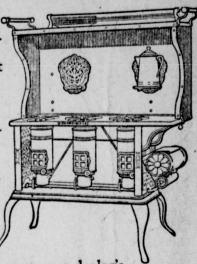

A sportsman of great imaginative gifts and fond of telling his exploits, related that at one shot he had brought down two partridges and a hare. His explanation was that although he had only hit one partridge the bird in falling had clutched at another partridge and brought that to earth entangled in its claws. "But how about the hare?" he was asked. "Oh!" was the calm reply, "my gun kicked and knocked me backward and I fell on the hare as it ran past."—The Sketch.

Country Printer Who Became Governor.

Many American public men have had remarkable careers, in that they raised themselves by their own ability and energy from the lowly plane of poverty to success and position. Entitled to rank high among these carvers-out of their own fortunes is the Hon. Jared Young Sanders, Governor of Louisiana. Governor Sanders is the son of a Confederate veteran who was a planter in Louisiana, but who died when the lad was only twelve years old and in a year when a great flood swept away the family's plantation. The widowed mother, having eight children on her hands, young Sanders, the eldest child, was obliged at once to go to work. He was employed for a time as a clerk in a country store, but subsequently entered the office of a country weekly at Franklin, La., where he learned to set type. At the age of twenty-one he became editor and then began to study law. Three years later, in 1893, he entered Tulane University Law School, and after his graduation began practice at Franklin. For a time he was associated with ex-Governor Foster, of Louisiana, and others, but afterward set up for himself. In 1892 he was elected to the Legislature and served twelve years in that body, being for four years Speaker of the House. In 1904 he was elected Lieutenant-Governor, and in 1908 Governor. The Governor's administration has been successful and popular.

Grant Gives His Views On Prohibition.

In Chicago Major Gen. Frederick Dent Grant delivered an eloquent plea for temperance. "I am not a Prohibitionist," he said. "I believe that regulation can accomplish more than prohibition at present, but I do believe the individual can be a tee-totaler. If you will allow me two glasses of champagne and one drink of whiskey in eighteen years, then I can claim to have practiced what I preach."

"The reason I urge that in young men is because I have found that an invariable rule that when a man drinks but sparingly, only getting drunk once in a great while, he always chooses for that periodical jag the worst possible time."

"I never have been in a private residence in Chicago or on the streets of the city, or any of the other places in the world where I have been, and I have felt like kicking him."

(The writer has refrained from wines, whiskey and other intoxicants for about 32 years; but does not want to kick the thoughtless man who gets drunk, or enters saloons for the purpose of drinking.—Editor.)

LIKED THE FIGHTING APOSTLE.

Name of St. Peter Appealed to Heart of Soldier.

It is well known that Elise Howe, the inventor of the sewing machine, not only enlisted as a common soldier in the ranks of the Seventeenth Connecticut regiment, carried a rifle, and did full military duty during the war, but at a certain juncture, when national finances were at a low ebb, he paid soldiers out of his own pocket. Relative to this incident, P. T. Barnum used to tell this story:

"While Mr. Howe was counting out the money referred to, a stranger, who was a clergyman, entered the tent and said he had heard of Mr. Howe's liberality and had called to ask him to contribute toward building a church for his congregation.

"Church, church," said Mr. Howe without looking up from his bills. He was counting; building churches in war times, when so much is needed to save our country! What church is it?"

"St. Peter's church," replied the clergyman.

"Oh, St. Peter's," said Mr. Howe; "well, St. Peter was the only fighting apostle—he cut a man's ear off. I'll go $500 on St. Peter, but I am spending most of my money on saltpetre now."

A TREE THAT IS WORSHIPED.

Ficus Religiosa Held Sacred by Buddhists and Hindus.

In most of the countries of south-eastern Asia, the Indian Ficus religiosa, the sacred and consecrated fig tree, or peepul tree, is found. It is held preeminently sacred by the Buddhists, and is revered also by the Hindus, the birth of Vishnu having occurred beneath its branches.

It is a handsome tree, growing frequently to a great height. It is an evergreen, which puts forth its flowers in April, and the bark yields freely upon incision an acrid milk containing a considerable proportion of india rubber. The leaves are heart-shaped, long, pointed and vibrant in the air like those of the laurel.

A branch of one of these trees, having a notable history, was sent to a city in the interior of Ceylon, where it was planted, and became known by the name of the bo-tree. For 200 years, it received the highest reverence, and is still the chief object of worship to the pilgrims who every year flock to the ruins of the city.

Trim Your Nails.

There is a certain eminent physician who, wiser than the children of light, plods his way along in an unbeaten track and has no peer as a diagnostician. He is always accompanied by an expert manicurist, instead of a white or colored valet. "The human nail, like the human hair," he said to me, "is much affected by physical conditions. Barbers will tell you that in certain seasons the beard, for instance, grows nearly twice as fast as at others. It is the same with the nails. At other times it grows in a week. Sometimes the nail has transverse furrows, indicating periods of illness. At other times it bears furrows running lengthwise—a sure indication of gout. My manicurist can tell by these indications when your last sickness occurred, and I can tell what the malady was."

She Got the Letter.

"You say you mailed the letter about half an hour ago at a window in the east corridor?" he asked.

"Yes, yes," she said.

"To whom was it addressed?" he told him.

"And now you want to stop that letter?" he went on, still more sternly.

"You want to get it back?" "Why?" "Because," said the woman with unpremeditated frankness, "I am afraid his wife will get it."

"Oh," said the stern official. She got the letter.

The Psychology of the Badge.

"I've always noticed," spoke up Old Jim, "that us farmers, when we get on a billed shirt and a derby hat, feel about the same as a city feller wearin' a soft shirt and a slouch hat. We sort o' believe that it's our duty to over-in-due. In the old days I wuz one o' them kind what couldn't even pin a badge on my coat without 'sleedin' that I had a license for paint the town red."

"Yes," laughed Cal, "there hasn't no sadder sight than, for one, a perfectly sober man all covered with ribbons and badges."—From "Old Jim Case of South Hallow."

Resentment.

"Does you charge 20 cents fob dat little box o' strawberries?" asked Aunt Hannah, superciliously.

"Yes," answered the grocer.

"An' it 'ud take about a thousand of dem berries to make one tuncen of wattermelon! I don't mind de price, but I don't hate see impudence!"—Washington Star.

Dead Dog.

"What's become of your dog? I haven't seen him for a long time."

"You notice what a cold I've got?"

"Yes, but what's that?"

"Well, a lot of people told me things to do for my cold, and I was wise enough to try 'em on him first."

HER MOMENT OF COMPLETE JOY.

When Grandmother Reads First Letter from Her Grandchild.

You may talk about great state papers, of presidents' messages, of royal exchanges of salutations, and all that sort of thing, but when you want to strike a chord that beats in all things with the human heart, just see that grandmother reading that first letter from her grandchild. All time and space, and the weary and wearied are, are concentered into the bliss of the moment, when the dear woman drinks in the meaning of these awkward, hesitating, incoherent lines which with all their crudities, still seem sweetly and dignified under the emotion of a first great effort.

"There is nothing like it," Shakepeare never matched it. Dante reads like an almanac by the side of it. It is a revelation that makes St. John's seem insipid and pale. The good woman reads it over and over, and thinks away back when she was a little girl, and when the child's mother was a little girl, and then of this little boy, just starting to open a path into the new life, and she reads another passage of the sweet, blundering letter, which closes with the very formality of affection—"Your loving friends"—and then her thoughts are out of the window into the gray skies, but after a while they come back, bringing her the assurance from somewhere, that of all the blessings of life, one of the sweetest has come to her—that of getting the first epistle from her first grandchild—Columbus (O.) State Journal.

FIRST AND LAST APPEARANCE.

Only Occasion on Which Casey Was Admitted to Parlor.

An old fisherman named Casey made a lot of money as a contractor, and built a fine house for his children. The sons and daughters were much ashamed of the plebeian father, and Casey was always kept in the rear of the house when they had a party or a reception. One day Casey died, and there was a great to-do about it. The children were proud of the plenty of flowers, and Casey was laid in state in the parlor.

One old Irish woman, who had known Casey when he was a laborer, came and asked to see the face of her dead friend. They conducted her to the coffin, took a long look, and said:

Grizzlies Eat Violets.

In one locality the grizzly of the Rockies is found eating the fresh sprigs of the dogfoot violet and the green leaves of the spring beauties, says Fur News, while a few hundred miles further on, to the north or south as the case may be, the grizzly doesn't touch them.

Instead he may be discovered munching on the roots of the shooting star, down in the Hitter Root mountain country, for instance, among the towering peaks of the Rockies. Upon this question of locality which is often overlooked or even ignored by nature writers, the solution of many warmly disputed points between those who tell the public at large all about nature and its animals.

First Freedman in the Army.

The first muster of freedmen into the United States Army occurred on November 7, 1862, at Gen. Saxton's headquarters in Beaufort, S. C. It was on the first anniversary of the Emancipation Proclamation and at the time of the organization of the department of health.

Capt. James had his men drawn up in line and as he read their names from the roll each man answered "Here." Then with uncovered heads and right hands raised the men took the usual oath of allegiance, which was administered by Gen. Saxton. This simple ceremony over, the newly-made soldiers marched back to their camp—Southern Workman.

When Lent Commenced.

Lent is said to have been instituted by Pope Telesphorus. In early days Lent commenced on Sunday, now known as the first Sunday in Lent, but in 487 the four days, preceding were added by Pope Felix III. (483-526), thus increasing the number of fast days to 40. It was first observed in England in 640. Previous to 1543 the use of meat was prohibited during this season, but in that year Henry VIII. (1509-1547) of England issued a proclamation permitting the use of white meat. The use of meat was wholly forbidden by James I. and again by Charles I.

Making a Record.

"I remember one time I was drivin' a particular good looking' boss that sprung for me so soon as I got a trotter, and a bystander who'd been a watchin' his movements finally stepped up ter me, and seminin' to know who I was sez Jim, 'jest bout how fast kin that boss trot?'"

"Oh, I dunno," sez I, 'I take 'im out ter drive 'em in the morn' 'bout three minutes and call it a mile.'"

"Old Jim Case of South Hallow."

Dangerous Literature.

"Let me leave you some of our book lots," said the stoungy agent; "they give illustrated descriptions of a number of our trips to the most remote parts of the vast empire of the Orient."

"Take them away," said the bank cashier fearfully; "if the directors saw 'em on my desk they would have my books overhauled sure."

Merely a Suggestion.

During the dinner hour on board a steamer the other day a passenger was much disturbed by the vulgar way in which the man who sat next to him ate his meat. At last, after watching him pick a bone in a very primitive fashion, he could control his feelings no longer, and, turning to the offending party, he said: "Don't you think you would be more comfortable if you took that out on the mat?"—Trib-Bis.

A Motor Service.

With slight modification the boy's criticism in his essay on the horse might be applied to the motor-car bus—namely, that "the horse is a noble animal, but he does not always do so." The motor-carbus is the servant of the vast numbers of people, but it is sometimes allowed to behave in a manner which is objectionable.

Setting Hard Task for Cat.

Two little boys, talking together one day—English boys these—were heard to remark that their mother's cat had again had kittens. "Oh, she is a champion lady," said one to which the other replied, "I wish some day she would lay tadpoles!" these being the particular joy of his heart at that moment.

Vienna's Beggars.

Vienna has 32,000 street beggars, and many of them make a better living than workmen.

Costly Popularity.

France's cruiser Leon Gambetta is named after the famous politician, who died on December 31, 1882. In the days of his vast popularity Gambetta had an experience which he was wont to tell against himself. In Paris admirers unyoked his horses and dragged the carriage to his house. Gambetta would narrate this with an air of pride, and he would add, with a smile: "But I never saw my horses galled!"

Friends in Need.

What need we have any friends, if we should not ever have need of them? They were the most needless creatures living, should we never have use for them, and would most resemble sweet instruments hung up in cases that keep their sounds to themselves.—Shakespeare.

Brighter Outlook for the Future In Trade and Industry.

R. G. Dun & Co's Weekly Review of Trade says:

Further significant improvements have been made in iron and steel, and as they form a great basic trade this goes far toward establishing the long desired readjustment of the whole industrial situation. This and the better weather for both agricultural and mercantile interests are the week's most important trade developments. A marked optimistic feeling therefore prevails in most branches of business in spite of the fact that the unsettling tariff debate continues.

In woolen goods advances continue in many lines, especially in worsteds. The yarn market is irregular, low prices bringing out some business.

The shoe trade is improved. Buyers in the Boston market have placed some fair-sized contracts and trade is expected to increase as shoe buyers are confronted with a rapidly advancing hide and leather market.

Goes to Germany.

Mr. John Palmer Darnall, of Flemingsburg, assistant professor in the preparatory department of Central University, has received a high honor and recognition of his scholarly ability in being appointed as one of the American professors of conversational English in one of the gymnasiums of Prussia. The appointment was made by the Carnegie Foundation. The Prussian Gymnasium is equal in standard to our American colleges. PASSES COMMENT ON THE BLUEGRASS CAPITAL.

Lexington People Should Get Busy.

At Lexington Friday night Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane, the Civic League authority from Kalamazoo, Mich., delivered a public lecture in which, while declaring she was already in love with Lexington, handed out some hot roasts for some of the municipal practices. She said that a spectacle which shocked her was the practice at the workhouse of working men and women together in the rock quarries and of the sleeping quarters of the two sexes being separated only by open iron bars, with no screens whatever intervening. The market house she found reasonably satisfactory, but declared that conditions at the two slaughter houses were awful. Beside the surroundings being unsanitary, she said, she found a swarm of friendly dogs in one of the slaughter houses. Dogs, she stated, develop germs from the dead animals and distribute them among human beings.

She praised the macadam roads. She said this was one of the places she had found hydrant water safe to drink. Mrs. Crane declared that never in her life had she seen such tenement problems as confront this city. She declared tenement conditions here as bad as the worst districts of New York and Chicago, and worse than any city of its size she had ever seen. She criticised severely the toilet arrangements of the public schools and declared some of the toilet closets at the State University dormitory were in an inexpressibly shocking condition.

Protest Made Against Negroes Eating in Restaurant.

The presence of William T. Vernon, the Register of the Treasury, who is a negro, in the restaurant of the House in Washington aroused the ire of several Southern Representatives in the House. They complained to the management of the restaurant and there was talk of filing a protest with the Speaker, who as chairman of the building commission, formulates the rules governing the restaurant.

The members who noted the presence of Vernon and a companion of his own race in the restaurant, were Representatives Candler, of Mississippi; Dies, and Garner, of Texas; Stanley, of Kentucky, and Sims, of Tennessee. Messrs. Garner and Dies immediately left the place; It is possible an effort will be made to have negroes excluded from the restaurant.

N. Birch, who recently moved from this county. When the writer, who officiated, arrived at the home the family and friends were assembled in the yard under the plum trees. Why go elsewhere for the marriage altar? The couple was to leave on next morning for Rushville, their future home.

"The Clothes We Sell AND Why We Sell Them"

WHEN we went into the Clothing Business, after successfully selling every other item of man's apparel for years, with ample capital, a great selling organization and wide knowledge of Clothing, we had before us the choice of all the Men's Clothing makers in America. Most of them offered to make the Clothes bearing our label only. With this tremendous market upon us we spent the best part of a year in looking over the field, in examining the merchandise and the manufacturing facilities of the best makers before coming to a decision. The people of this vicinity know the RESULT: We took

- I. Their Clothing is better designed than any other.
- II. It is so splendidly Tailored that the style stays.
- III. Their fabrics are all Wool and nothing but Wool.
- IV. The NAME.
- V. In all America there are no two lines of Clothing wherein a dollar of money buys so much in fabrics and style and wearing value, and here we can sell you a suit for $18 that other stores would ask you $22.50 to $25 for—NONE BETTER.
- VI. When you buy a suit from us you know who made it. The Maker puts his Name in it so you would come back for a garment of his make.
- VII. We certainly had no "axe to grind" in selecting these two lines.
- VIII. You surely ought to know all about the kind of Clothes you wear.
- IX. If you are not satisfied, bring your Clothes back to us and get your money.
- X. It was because in this way only can we give what we determined at the start—"The Best Clothes in America at the Fairest Prices."

Now you are the "Judge and the Jury" and it's up to you to tell us if we are doing as we advertise.
